

The medical certificate can be issued by any public or private sanitary institution. It must certify that you do not suffer from diseases that may pose a threat to the public health.